

Heavy Duty Aluminized Steel 12-tin Nonstick Banana Bread Mold Cupcake Muffin Baking Pan

Main features of 12-tin banana shaped bread cake muffin cupcake baking pan

Introducing our banana bread mold tray, a uniquely designed baking solution tailored for commercial and industrial use. This tray features separate banana-shaped baking molds, allowing for the creation of perfectly uniform banana bread and cake every time. The innovative interlocked strap construction ensures that each mold remains securely in place, providing stability and consistency throughout the baking process.

Measuring a standard commercial tray size of 400x600mm, this mold tray seamlessly fits into most commercial ovens, making it an ideal choice for bakeries, cafes, and large kitchens. The compact yet spacious design allows for efficient use of oven space, enabling the production of multiple banana bread cake simultaneously without compromising on quality.

Crafted from aluminized steel, the banana bread mold tray offers exceptional durability and heat conductivity. The aluminized steel construction ensures even heat distribution across all molds, resulting in uniformly baked foods with a consistent texture and appearance. This material also provides excellent resistance to rust and corrosion, enhancing the longevity of the tray.

The non-stick coating on each mold is a key feature that simplifies the baking and cleaning process. This coating ensures that banana bread or cake effortlessly release from the molds, reducing the need for excessive greasing or the use of parchment paper. This feature is particularly advantageous in high-volume production environments, where efficiency and ease of maintenance are crucial.

Designed for commercial and industrial use, this banana bread mold tray is perfect for professional bakers and chefs who demand reliability and performance from their baking equipment. The robust construction and high-quality materials ensure that this tray can withstand frequent use and high temperatures, making it a valuable addition to any professional kitchen.
